Call for Papers: volume 20.2
Fear and Loathing

LIMINA is an online, refereed, academic journal of historical and cultural studies based in the School of Humanities at the University of Western Australia. The journal operates with a special commitment to publishing the work of postgraduates and early career researchers, and encourages creative methodologies. LIMINA provides a lively environment in which diverse work can be published, and promotes resistance to traditional disciplinary boundaries. At the same time it demands a rigorous approach to issues of research, context and theoretical debates.

The Limina Editorial Collective is calling for papers of substantive and original scholarly work from postgraduate and early career researchers in the Humanities and Social Sciences which engage with the theme of ‘Fear and Loathing’. Topics may include (but are not limited to):

- Social and/or Immigration Policy
- Gender and/or Sexuality
- Fear and Loathing in the Australian Context
- Experiences of Difference
- Digital and/or Popular Culture
- Anthropology
- Identity(ies)
- Religion
- Narratives of the Self
- Stigma

Articles should be between 5000 and 8000 words in length and must conform to the Limina Style Guide. For clarification, please see: http://www.limina.arts.uwa.edu.au/submissions/style_guide

Send submissions to Colleen Harmer (Submissions Editor) at liminajournal@gmail.com
